@letterror

Erik van Blokland is a type designer from The Hague. He's best known for Beowulf, a self-modifying digital typeface, released for the first time in 1990. He worked with Just van Rossum. Together they formed Letterror, a design firm dedicated to type, arts and research, where computer programming is the leading philosophy, and developed the RoboFut, a Python scripting environment for FontLab.

@jessicahische

Jessica Hische is a letterer and illustrator best known for her personal projects Daily Drop Caps and the Should I Work for Nike? flowchart as well as her work for clients like Wes Anderson, Penguin Books, and Google. She's been named one of Print Magazine's New Visual Artists, an ADC Young Gun, and one of Forbes 30 under 30 in Art and Design two years in a row. She is currently serving on the Type Directors Club board of directors, has traveled the world speaking about lettering and illustration, and has probably consumed enough coffee to power a small nation.

@ellenlupton

Ellen Lupton is a writer, curator, and graphic designer. She was awarded with an AIGA gold medal, but probably she is best known for her book Thinking with Type, which is used worldwide as a reference and text book about typography. She is also director of the Graphic Design MFA program at Maryland Institute College of Art (Baltimore).
